DID YOU KNOW...

Tuition & ticket sales do not cover the costs of CYT programming? As a 501(c)3 organization, we depend on contributed income above and beyond the fees for our programs in order to cover our costs. We strive to remain affordable for all participants while maintaining the quality of excellence in our programming.

What children of all ages are saying when they participate in our program?

CHRATERICAN:
“CYT gave me a place where I could worship openly and alongside other believers. I attribute much of my spiritual growth to my CYT experience.”

CULUTURE:
“CYT requires parents to be involved in shows and rehearsals and I really liked having my parents be interested and involved in what I am doing.”

CRAFT:
“CYT gave me a long-lasting sense of self-pride & work ethic. Becoming a part of something bigger than myself and putting the show and cast member’s needs before my own are lessons that have bled into my professional and personal ethics.”

Fruit of the Arts
Students who participate in the arts do better in school, stay in school longer and win more academic awards. They are also three times more likely to go to college and become more confident, considerate, prosocial, and pro-civic citizens.

SO HOW CAN I MAKE A DIFFERENCE?
